

Data on students' performance on these tests are important for all of us who love school and want to make it more interesting, because those engaged in educational policy are able to use them for better planning of curricula, improvement of textbooks, professional development and teachers' training. All of these will allow us to determine the quality, fairness and efficiency of our educational system. So, make your best efforts to do the tests as better as you can and thereby prove that you love your country. In this way you will put your country at the level of the best ones.

We wish you much success!!!
