EIGHT REASONS WHY YOUR FIRST YEAR AT UNIVERSITY WILL BE THE BEST OF YOUR LIFE

Speaking as a student who's just finished his first year at university, here are eight reasons why I think yours will be the best of your life:

1) The people

In most cases, the people you meet will be the people you are friends with for the rest of your life. Whatever your interests, you will find a group of people just like you.

Remember, everyone is in the same boat when they go to university. Everyone is finding their feet just like you are, so don't worry – you will find someone who likes you. I met so many great people and the ones you meet will play a huge part in ensuring you have the best year of your life.

2) The freedom

The independence you get at university is unbelievable, so embrace the fact the world is your oyster. If you fancy a walk at 4am, you can do it. There's no asking your parents, you just go.

Of course, I wouldn't advise a stroll in the middle of the night, but it's what I always think about when considering the freedom you have. The independence on offer is an essential factor as to why the first year is so brilliant.

3) The course

I know what you're thinking: work?! Yes, unfortunately it's a (relatively) big part of your first year, but don't worry – it doesn't actually count. The first year is very much for settling in to life away from home, in a new place, and with new people, so they don't expect magic from you from day one.

However, it's important to try and balance your social life with your work though, because doing well in my first year has opened up so many doors that will help me in my second year and in my career too, hopefully. I love my course and, without it, I couldn't have had the best year.

4) Freshers' Week¹

It's incredible – the best part of the year. You get to know your flatmates and meet new people, all in a great environment where everyone just wants to have a good time. You effectively become nocturnal and your sleeping pattern is completely destroyed, but it's all fun and definitely worth immersing yourself into. You only get one Freshers' Week, so make the most of it!

5) Societies

There is a society for just about everything and if you can't find the one you're looking for, then start one. Getting involved with societies is a great way to find friends, have fun, and pad-out your CV. Getting involved will really enhance your experience at university.

6) The food

Now this one may surprise you. You might be thinking: 'What will I do without my mum's cooking?' Well, the independence you have means that you have the licence to buy any food you want.

For example, one of my flatmates loved pasta, so had it for every meal – breakfast, lunch and dinner. No joke. For me, it was all about chicken steaks, chips, and beans, but each to their own.

In your first year, you will either learn to cook, eat microwave meals, or pass out (would avoid the last option).

7) The atmosphere

Whether in university, on nights out, or in halls, the atmosphere of first year life is priceless and brilliant. On the whole, everyone seems to be happy and buzzing, which adds hugely to the entire university experience.

8) Personal development

Finally, one of the most important things that will make your first year so great is your own self development. Moving away from home is a huge thing and, at times, it may be hard being away – but the people around you will always pick you up.

Soon after you arrive, you forget you have a family at all! Family? What family?!

Seriously though, I grew and matured so much over the course of my first year. You will each go through your own journeys and trust me: you will have the best year of your life.

So, savour every moment because it goes way too fast. I had an excellent one, and I hope you will too. Good luck!

SHEER CLIFFS, DENSE JUNGLE AND ITS OWN CLIMATE: MESMERISING DRONE FOOTAGE CAPTURES HAUNTING BEAUTY OF THE WORLD'S LARGEST CAVE

You might not believe it at first but you'll soon realize how it has room for a skyscraper with 40 floors and contains both jungle and a river. The Son Doong cave in Vietnam is the largest one in the world and a tour inside this place is something out of the ordinary. Tag along in this underground world and be astounded by how marvelous and beautiful nature can be.

The enormous cave is situated in the Vietnamese national park Phon Nha-Ke Bang, 280 miles south from the country's capital city Hanoi.

Son Doong means "mountain-river-cave" and exists from two to five million years ago. But for a long time it was undiscovered. The cave was first discovered in 1991, when a local farmer stumbled across it and sought shelter there from a storm. The first people who explored the cave were British experts in 2009.

The cave as a whole is considered to be 87 miles long. It contains its own animal life, a rainforest, lakes, beaches and a river. A lot of caves have relics from a prehistoric age, like statues or paintings in the mountain walls. But nothing like that has been found in this cave. 2013 did the first tourists visit the cave.

There are guided tours to get here. A team of more than 25 porters, safety experts and guides take the tour over six days. The journey to the cave takes a day and a half through dense uninhabited jungle, before you abseil 260ft (79m) down to its entrance. You will also spend several nights camping inside the cave. Tours must be booked in advance as there is a strict limit of 10 guests per departure.

The cave is also rich in rare pearls that have been shaped for centuries by water drops that's been dried and shaped a layer of lime on the sand.

The cave was named the largest in the world after a 2009 expedition to survey it by the British Cave Research Association.
