1. READING

1.1. Four sentences (A, B, C and D) have been removed from the text The Three Crowns Hotel. Read the text carefully and write the correct letters for the missing paragraphs. There is an example at the beginning.

The Three Crowns Hotel

The little town of Vevey, in Switzerland, stands beside Lake Geneva. (0) ___ | D There are many different kinds of hotel around the lake. There are new, grand hotels which are painted white. And there are also small pensions – simple, old hotels with just a few rooms. (1) ___ | ___ The pensions are smaller, with fewer rooms. However, one of the hotels in Vevey is very different from the others because it is old but also very comfortable. This hotel is named the Trois Couronnes – the Three Crowns.

The hotel is very popular with Americans. Many American travelers visit Vevey in summer and a lot of them stay at the Trois Couronnes. At this time the town is full of fashionable young girls in beautiful dresses. At night in the hotel, you can hear the sounds of excited voices and lively music. (2) ___ | ___ You can almost believe that you are in America. However, the Trois Couronnes is a European hotel. It has neatly-dressed German waiters. And in the garden you might meet a Russian princess, or the son of a Polish gentleman.

There is a wonderful view from the hotel. From its big windows, you can see the top of the Dent du Midi – a tall, snow-covered mountain. (3) ___ | ___ All these things remind you that you are in Switzerland, not America.

- A. And you can also see the towers of the Château de Chillon, an old castle which stands beside the lake.
- B. The voices have American accents and an orchestra plays dance music.
- C. The grand hotels have lots of rooms with big windows.
- ~~D.~~ Many travelers come to visit the beautiful blue lake, and so its shore is crowded with hotels.

Answer the questions 4 and 5.

4. “You can almost believe that you are in America.” Why?

---

5. “These things remind you that you are in Switzerland.” Give an example.

The True Story of the World's Most Famous Bear

The true story of the bear who inspired the beloved kids character is detailed in a picture book by Lindsay Mattick, whose great-grandfather bought the original Winnie as a pet during World War I. The children's book details the friendship between Canadian veterinarian, Lieutenant Harry Colebourn, and the black bear who he named after his hometown Winnipeg.

Mattick writes that Colebourn was on his way to tend to battlefield horses in 1914, when he rescued the baby bear naming her Winnie. The veterinarian had stopped on a train platform in White River where he found a hunter selling the cub for $20. Colebourn took Winnie with him as he continued traveling to the east coast of Canada before getting on a ship with her and his regiment to Salisbury Plain, England. Winnie, a unit mascot, remained with her friend Colebourn through months of battlefield training.

However, when Colebourn had to leave for France, he decided it was not safe for Winnie to go along and took her to the London Zoo. There, she was often visited by Christopher Robin and his father A.A. Milne. Winnie was driven from the Salisbury Plain right to the London Zoo, where they agreed to keep her in their care, until the war was over. Harry truly did intend to bring her home once the war was finished, but history had another plan in mind.

'A. A. Milne, the author of the Winnie the Pooh stories, and his son, Christopher Robin, used to go to the zoo all the time. Winnie was a very friendly bear and Christopher Robin ended up naming his stuffed bear after Winnie. 'So his bear was called Winnie the Pooh. And I understand that the Pooh part of the story is actually that there was also a swan that Christopher Robin was quite fond of, and every time the feathers would fall out of the swan, he would blow off the feathers and go, "pooh, pooh."'

'At any rate, Christopher Robin named his bear Winnie and then, as A.A. Milne began writing these stories all about these adventures of Christopher Robin's stuffed animals in the Hundred Acre Wood behind their home, he borrowed the name Winnie for his character in the Winnie the Pooh stories.'

Winnie went on to live for a long time for a bear, dying when she was about 20 years old in 1934.
