

Vrijeme rješavanja testa je 150 minuta.

Pažljivo pročitajte uputstvo.

Ne okrećite stranice dok to ne dozvoli dežurni nastavnik.

Za vrijeme rada na testu nije dozvoljena upotreba rječnika i elektronskih uređaja. Odgovore treba pisati hemijskom olovkom. Odgovori napisani grafitnom olovkom neće biti priznati.

Provjera razumijevanja slušanog teksta sastoji se od dva zadatka. Svaki tekst slušaćete dvaput. Imaćete dovoljno vremena da pročitate pitanja prije nego što čujete tekst kao i da provjerite svoje odgovore. Za vrijeme slušanja možete da zapisujete odgovore.

Odgovore na pitanja višestrukog izbora treba pažljivo prepisati na List za odgovore. Odgovori na pitanja koji nijesu napisani na listu za odgovore neće se priznati.

Kod pisanja sastava dozvoljeno je pisanje koncepta na listovima za koncept. Vodite računa o broju riječi, jezičkoj pravilnosti i čitljivosti teksta. Konačna verzija se čitko prepisuje na predviđeno mjesto u testu i ona će biti bodovana.

Zadatak će se vrednovati sa 0 bodova ako je:

- netačan
- zaokruženo više ponuđenih odgovora
- nečitko i nejasno napisan
- rješenje napisano grafitnom olovkom

Ukoliko pogriješite, prekržite i rješavajte ponovo.

Želimo vam puno uspjeha!

STANFORD UNIVERSITY

This is a place for learning, discovery, innovation, expression and discourse. It was founded in 1885 by California Senator Leland Stanford and his wife Jane “to promote the public welfare by exercising an influence in behalf of humanity and civilization.”

1. _____ Comprising more than 25 centers, it provides a broad range of services and support to Stanford students, including leadership development, housing programs, public service, career exploration and community engagement. It supports every student, faculty member, and staff member on campus by maintaining and developing effective systems and applications, engaging directly with students, faculty and administrative staff. We administer hundreds of key operations, transactions and processes to ensure student success, equity of access and the integrity of a Stanford education.
2. _____ Nearly all undergraduates and more than 60% of graduate students reside in 81 diverse campus facilities. Eight buffet tables, a teaching kitchen and organic gardens provide the campus community with healthy, sustainable meals. Escondido Village Graduate Residences (EVGR) is Stanford’s newest on-campus residential community. EVGR is comprised of four 10-story residential buildings, with wings ranging from 6 to 10 stories high. The design reflects the distinct style and attributes of many of Stanford’s most beloved buildings.
3. _____ Stanford has a rich tradition of fostering creativity. In fall 2016 Stanford opened the renovation of Roble Gym with new and upgraded theater, now called the Harry Elam’s Theater, and dance spaces. Frost Amphitheater reopened in the spring of 2019 after an extensive renovation. Now the university is looking to jump to the next level by engaging every Stanford student, generating pioneering programs that are possible only at Stanford, and moving Stanford forward with leading creatives and scholars.
4. _____ The Stanford campus is home to a world-class exhibition - the Anderson Collection. The collection is a gift from the Anderson family. Highlights from the Anderson Collection on view in Left of Center demonstrate the unique opportunities that the West Coast offered twentieth-century artists. Irregularly shaped paintings and sculptures created using unconventional materials, such as plastic and found objects, are among the artworks on view, showcasing the inventive spirit of the West Coast. It is known as one of the world’s most outstanding private assemblies of modern art.
5. _____ Stanford offers activities that promote health. Ashtanga yoga will be taught with an authorized instructor. The teacher works individually with each student. All skill levels are welcome. Cardio Dance combines traditional aerobic routines with dance-based choreography including swing, salsa, hip-hop, modern, African and Jazz. No experience necessary, just the love of movement and upbeat music! Please note that the classes will take place outdoors. No equipment will be provided. Participants should bring their own mats and any other items such as a towel and full water bottle.

6. _____ Whether you're coming from near or far, we've got you covered. Bike, carpool, or transit – we can help you find the best way to get to, from and around campus. We are offering information to support the transportation and mobility needs of the Stanford community. We are continuing to provide commute assistance where we are able to do so. However, we recognize that commuting is a personal choice. Stanford commuters are encouraged to assess and select the option(s) that best meet their needs.

7. _____ The Stanford University Department of Public Security exists to provide a secure atmosphere which is conducive to freedom of expression and movement, for people and their property at Stanford University, within the constraints of the Federal, State, Local laws and ordinances. The annual Security and Fire Report provides information and resources about campus security, police and fire services, as well as Stanford University crime data and student housing fire statistics.

8. _____ We seek to heal humanity through science and compassion, one patient at a time, through its commitment to education and discovery. Our center delivers clinical innovation across its inpatient services, specialty centers, physician offices, virtual care offerings and various programs. Stanford HC center is renowned for breakthroughs in treating cancer, heart disease, brain disorders, surgical and medical conditions.

IS THIS THE CAPITAL OF KIMCHI?

In a nation known for its amazing food, in a province known for the top-quality ingredients, Gwangju has become almost a city-scale distillation of essential Korean cuisine. Gwangju, which means “city of light”, is a city in waiting, nervously stepping into the spotlight. It has hugged the banks of the Yeongsan River at the foot of the Sobaek Mountains in the south-west corner of the Korean Peninsula since its founding in 57BC. For decades, Gwangju stood for honour, sacrifice and freedom – noble concepts all, but hardly the stuff of breezy holidays.

In recent years, however, the city has developed a more palatable identity: Gwangju is South Korea’s surprise foodie capital. For locals, it’s not quite a new title. According to a legend, when an old king exiled people from the Korean capital Seoul, those who were granted lighter sentences were sent to Gwangju’s fertile province of Jeolla. The others were sent to Gyeongsang province, where food was scarce.

As industrialization swept South Korea in the 1960s, the Jeolla region remained largely agricultural and took on a romantic sense of pastoral splendour. By the 1980s, its dishes were given the name “Namdo cuisine”, which literally means “southern food”, but it is Korean soul food: rich, heavy, pungent and folksy. Hungry visitors to the city can feast on classic and varied rice dishes; cabbages and radishes grown in the legendary spring water of Muju; seafood specialties including blue crab, soy-marinated crab and pan-fried battered bass medallions. It all combines the Korean concept of culinary largesse that more food should be offered than can be eaten.

Anyway, the best kimchi in Korea is said to be from Gwangju, which has assumed the title of the dish's birthplace. The city is, then, a natural home for an annual kimchi festival. The craft of kimchi-making is so highly regarded that visits to Kimchi Town, an interactive museum where you can try your hand at making kimchi, are almost pilgrimages for Korean kindergarteners and foreign travellers alike.

Gwangju's claim of kimchi primacy is bolder than outsiders might think. Kimchi has an overwhelming sway over Korean culture, not just Korean taste buds. When Soyeon Yi, a Gwangju native, became Korea's first astronaut in 2008, the government spent years of research and millions of dollars developing "space kimchi" for her to eat in zero gravity. "If a Korean goes to space, kimchi must go there, too," a Korean Food Research Institute scientist told press at the time.

PLAYING TO WIN

WHO WINS?
PLAYER 1	PLAYER 2	WINNER
Scissors	vs. Paper	Scissors cuts paper.

Paper	vs. Rock	Paper covers rock.

Rock	vs. Scissors	Rock breaks scissors.

Wyatt Baldwin has been playing rock, paper, scissors for as long as he can remember. While he was growing up, the game helped him to sort out 1 _____ (disagree) with his three older sisters. "I never got the chance to pick what we watched on TV until I learned the sport of rock, paper, scissors," he said.

Baldwin is the founder and president of the World Rock Paper Scissors Association. He has played in and hosted competitions around the globe. He once enjoyed a 43-game winning streak. The secret to his smashing success? "Look for patterns in either your opponent's moves or 2 _____ (behave)," he says. As Baldwin and all serious rock, paper, scissors players know, there's more to the game than luck.

Many people think rock, paper, scissors is all luck. Your 3 _____ (probable) of winning a round seems as good as your chance of losing one. But in reality, the outcome of the game isn't completely random. There are 4 _____ (predict) patterns in the way people make decisions, even quick ones.

Knowing the psychology of rock, paper, scissors isn't a sure ticket to winning a match, but it can help. Ken "Whitey" Watson is one of the best players in the world. According to him, winning the game takes skill and 5 _____ (know). "You have to size up your opponent," he says. Though luck and chance play a part, "you have to be prepared and have a strategy. Part of my strategy is being confident," he adds.
